

Basic Detail Report

The Shipworker Newspaper

Date
October 5, 1956
Primary Maker
John Simonetti

Medium
paper, ink

Description

Newspaper; The Shipworker, New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn, N.Y., Vol. XV, No. 40, October 5, 1956 (oversize) Headline reads "Shipyard Welcomes Carrier Intrepid" with article on front page about USS Intrepid titled "Sixth Fleet Flattop is Here for // Overhaul and Modernization." Page 3 also has article about Intrepid's history titled "Intrepid is Rightly Named -- Fought Valiantly // in WWII Despite Fierce Kamikaze Attacks." Briefly describes modernization work planned for Intrepid at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Dimensions

17 x 11 in. (43.2 x 27.9 cm)

SHIPYARD WELCOMES CARRIER INTREPID
Photos of First Jet Landing on Sara!

Grumman Fighter Makes History Aboard Carrier
Flying in gracefully and smoothly, a Grumman F1F-1 Corsair made history recently when it became the first plane to make a landing on the forward flight deck of the aircraft carrier SARATOGA, the New York Naval Shipyard's crowning shipbuilding achievement to date.

Sixth Fleet Flattop is Here for Overhaul and Modernization
The shipyard's work had received a big boost this week when on Wednesday the aircraft carrier INTREPID (CVA-11) was received on the flattop for a major overhaul and modernization that will see the vessel make her home here until April 1957.

CVA-11 Navy's 4th Intrepid
The Navy's 4th Intrepid, the USS INTREPID (CVA-11), is now underway in the yard for a major overhaul and modernization. The ship was built by the yard in 1945 and has served in the Pacific, Atlantic and Indian Oceans.

Ship Aided by NYNS
The New York Naval Shipyard has been the recipient of much praise in the past for coming through when the chips were down, but no fact has been more essential than a recent one.

Turner Can't Turn But Good Turn Has Turner Again Making Turns
The New York Naval Shipyard has been the recipient of much praise in the past for coming through when the chips were down, but no fact has been more essential than a recent one.

EXTRA! Phila. All-Stars Nip New York, 4-3, in Annual Softball Game
See Page 4 for Complete Details and Pictures

Vol. XV, No. 40 New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn, N. Y. October 5, 1956